

Ace Defence

CASE STUDY

East Berkshire Golf Club

The Brief: Following a series of incidents at their green keepers building and clubhouse East Berkshire Golf club requested a CCTV system that would also give them perimeter protection as well as high-definition images.

The Solution: Ace Defence Security fitted the latest high-definition system that allowed cameras to be programmed to detect movement when a human crossed a boundary or entered an area. The final system could easily be operated by staff, using an app with simple Arm and Disarm functions. They would also receive notifications when the alarm was activated. In addition, the cameras were all fitted with LED white light illuminators which immediately improved all lighting levels around vulnerable areas and enhance the images giving full colour at night. In addition, the access control was upgraded with new readers and locking mechanisms. Cards were programmed to store members' details for till functions as well as allowing access to the clubhouse. Within a week the system successfully detected a break in at the green keepers building. The evidence provides clear evidence which was then passed on to police and enquires are in progress to make arrests.

“ Ace helped us with our clubhouse and green keepers security by providing a state of the art CCTV and access control system. The cameras have built-in lighting and an alarm system which notifies us of intruders without the need for expensive monitoring costs. It has dramatically improved our overall security and has helped bring peace of mind to our staff and members. Installed on time and on budget. We are very pleased with the result and would recommend Ace Defence Security to all Golf Clubs.
